Participation in all sports and physical activities involves certain inherent risks and, regardless of the care taken, it is impossible to ensure the safety of the participant. Sports require agility, coordination, strength and a high level of cardiovascular fitness. It involves moderate activity levels for 1 or more hours, with many quick bursts of speed and sprints. Players also participate in repetitive throwing that requires adequate arm strength. Sports involve fast moving objects, such as swinging bats and thrown balls, and occasional body-to-body contact. Therefore, sport workouts also require quick mental abilities and reactions. While the workouts are reasonably safe, as long as safety guidelines are followed, there are some elements of risk cannot be eliminated from the activity.

A variety of injuries may occur to a participant. Some examples of those injuries are:

1. Minor injuries such as scrapes, bruises, sprains, and strains;
2. More serious injuries such as broken bones, cuts, concussions, eye injuries (including loss of vision), internal elbow and shoulder injuries and head/neck/spine injuries;
3. Catastrophic injuries such as heart attacks, paralysis, and death. These, and other injuries, sometime occur as a result of hazards or accidents such as being struck by a ball, being struck by a bat, colliding with another player, sliding, slipping, or excessive stress placed on the cardiovascular system. To help reduce the likelihood of injury to yourself and to other participants, participants are expected to follow the following rules:
 - All participants are expected to wear proper footwear and clothing while participating.
 - All participants are expected to wear the proper protective equipment.
 - All participants are expected to follow all rules and regulations set forth by the coaches.
 - All participants are expected to avoid swinging or throwing when it might endanger another player.
 - All participants are expected to notify the coach or coaches of any injury as soon as it occurs.

I agree to follow the preceding safety rules, all posted safety instructions, and all rules common sports and the workouts. Further, I agree to report any unsafe practices, conditions, or equipment to the coaches.

I have read the preceding information and it has been explained to me if necessary. I know, understand, and appreciate the risks associated with participation in sports and I am voluntarily participating in the activity. In doing so, I am assuming all of the inherent risks of the sport. I further understand that in the event of a medical emergency, management will call EMS to render assistance and that I will be financially responsible for any expenses involved.

In consideration of being permitted to participate, on behalf of myself, my family, my heirs, and my assigns, I hereby release
